PUBLICATIONS

Note regarding co-authorship/author order: In the humanities and within the field of rhetoric and composition specifically, there are no established rules regarding the order of authors. Because I value collaborative, shared writing partnerships, particularly with graduate students, I frequently offer the first author position to graduate students and junior faculty with whom I work. On other projects with frequent collaborators, we will switch back and forth regarding the first author position.

In all projects listed below with a co-author or group, all authors listed participated in and contributed equally to the design, creation, composition, and editing of the project.

* denotes graduate student co-author
