Course Introduction:

Welcome to Religion, Spirituality, and Popular Music! In this course we will be examining popular music and its cultures through the frameworks of the academic study of religion and popular culture studies. In particular, we will begin by thinking about the issue of classification and the problem of defining religion in order to address the possibility of rethinking the "religious" and/or "cultic" function(s) of popular music cultures as proposed by two of the authors. This course will engage the student by means of a philosophical exploration of popular music culture and its association with religion through a politics of differentiation involved in identity construction (i.e., religious or musical). It is an invitation to critical thinking about and questioning of the notion that music functions in ways similar to religions in an increasingly secular and postmodern culture.

Course Objectives:

- To introduce students to the academic study of religion and popular culture studies
- To engage students in critical thinking about the relationship between religion and popular music
- To address issues of classification and definition
- To present various theoretical perspectives on the religiosity of popular music

Texts:

White Soul: Country Music, the Church and Working Americans, Tex Sample (Abingdon Press, 1996)

Point Distribution and Grade Scale

I. Written Assignments (44% of total possible points): Participation in the course will be determined by different writing assignments (i.e., posts) in each of the modules. These may consist of discussion questions/responses, essays, short answer, or video posts. Directions for these written assignments will be provided under the "Assignments" heading in each module. Discussions will close at the end of each module; do not wait until the last day to respond. Writing assignments will not be reopened once closed. If you have a documented medical emergency, you must provide a note from your doctor in order for me to consider allowing a missed assignment to be completed.

II. Quizzes/Final (56% of total possible points): There will be a quiz in each of the modules as well as a final exam in the last module to assess your comprehension of the material. Quizzes and the final exam will consist of responding to multiple-choice questions based on the readings. Given the (default) open book nature of the course, quizzes and the final will be timed. So, make sure you have read and comprehended the chapters before taking the quizzes/final. I would also suggest making a handy reference guide with names, theoretical positions, beliefs, etc. along with page numbers to reduce page-flipping during the timed assessments.

These percentages are approximations, since assignments and corresponding point totals may change in any given semester.

Final grades will be based on the number of points earned by the student out of a total of 500 possible points. Canvas has a habit of breaking down different types of assignments in terms of percentages. One of the problems with this feature is that it doesn't count missed assignments in its calculation (which yields a false percentage). This feature cannot be turned off; do not let those percentages confuse you. Final grades will be based on the total number of points earned as reflected in the grade scale below. Note: This scale has 2 rather than 3 possibilities relative to each passing letter grade (A/A-, B+/B, C+/C, etc.)

Academic/Personal Conduct

Academic Honesty

Plagiarism and cheating of any kind on an examination, quiz, or assignment will result at least in an "F" for that assignment (and may, depending on the severity of the case, lead to an "F" for the entire course) and may be subject to appropriate referral to the Office of Student Conduct for further action. See the UCF Golden Rule for further information. I will assume for this course that you will adhere to the academic creed of this University and will maintain the highest standards of academic integrity. In other words, don't cheat by giving answers to others or taking them from anyone else. I will also adhere to the highest standards of academic integrity, so please do not ask me to change (or expect me to change) your grade illegitimately or to bend or break rules for one person that will not apply to everyone.
Personal Conduct

You are expected to conduct yourself in a manner that is conducive to the academic ends that we are attempting to achieve (see University standards for personal conduct as outlined in The Golden Rule). This course is an educational safe zone. It welcomes the viewpoints of students of all sexual orientations, gender identities, races, ethnicities, religions, philosophies, and abilities. Consequently, all members of this learning community are expected to treat each other with respect and dignity and to refrain from offensive posts. It is expected that each student will be sensitive to the beliefs/values of others in the course. Critical thinking should not be understood as “belief bashing.” In the case that this advice is not followed you should expect a lowering of your final grade or, in the event of continuous serious violations, removal from the course.

Disability Statement

The University of Central Florida is committed to providing reasonable accommodations for all persons with disabilities. This syllabus is available in alternate formats upon request. Students with disabilities who need accommodations in this course must contact the professor at the beginning of the semester to discuss needed accommodations. No accommodations will be provided until the student has contacted the professor to request accommodations. Students who need accommodations must be registered with Student Disability Services, Student Resource Center Room 132, phone (407) 823-2371, TTY/TDD only phone (407) 823-2116, before requesting accommodations from the professor.

Third-Party Software and FERPA

During this course you might have the opportunity to use public online services and/or software applications sometimes called third-party software such as a blog or wiki. While some of these could be required assignments, you need not make any personally identifying information on a public site. Do not post or provide any private information about yourself or your classmates. Where appropriate you may use a pseudonym or nickname. Some written assignments posted publicly may require personal reflection/comments, but the assignments will not require you to disclose any personally identity-sensitive information. If you have any concerns about this, please contact your instructor.

Protocols
Classroom Expectations

The following ground rules will help your work in this course to go more smoothly. Please carefully review these expectations and follow them.

1. Academic integrity will be appraised according to the student academic behavior standards outlined in The Golden Rule of the University of Central Florida’s Student Handbook. See http://www.goldenrule.sdes.ucf.edu/ for further details.

2. Keep up with the reading. You have quite a few chapters, modules, discussion postings, and e-mail messages to read for the class. Please keep up with the reading. Students who keep up with the reading tend to do much better in this kind of class than those who do not.

Messaging

Make sure you:

1. Check your inbox at least twice per week (more often is better).
2. Be patient. Don’t expect an immediate response when you send a message. Generally, two days is considered reasonable amount of time to receive a reply.
3. Be courteous and considerate. Being honest and expressing yourself freely is very important but being considerate of others online is just as important as in the classroom.
4. Make every effort to be clear. Online communication lacks the nonverbal cues that fill in much of the meaning in face-to-face communication.
5. Do not use all caps. This makes the message very hard to read and is considered "shouting." Check spelling, grammar, and punctuation (you may want to compose in a word processor, then cut and paste the message into the discussion).
6. Break up large blocks of text into paragraphs and use a space between paragraphs.
7. Never assume that your messages can be read by no one except yourself; others may be able to read or access your mail. Never send or keep anything that you would not mind seeing on the evening news.

Discussion Topics

General "rules of the road" or protocols that apply to messages also apply to the use of discussions. Use the following conventions when composing a discussion posting:

1. During a Discussion assignment, deadlines for posting to and replying will be specified with each assignment. It is a good practice to always check the Discussions multiple times during the week.
2. Be patient. Don’t expect an immediate response when you send a message.
3. Everyone should feel free to participate in class and online discussions. Regular and meaningful discussion postings constitute a substantial portion of your grade.
4. Respect each other’s ideas, feelings and experiences.
5. Be courteous and considerate. It is important to be honest and to express yourself freely, but being considerate of others is just as important and expected online as it is in the classroom.
6. Explore disagreements and support assertions with data and evidence.
7. Do not use postings such as "I agree," "I don't know either," "Who cares," or "ditto." They do not add to the discussion, take up space on the Discussions, and will not be counted for assignment credit.

8. Avoid posting large blocks of text. If you must, break them into paragraphs and use a space between paragraphs.

Word of Caution

Since this course is predominantly self-paced, my very strong recommendation is that you keep up with the readings, discussion posts, and quizzes in order to stay on track. It has been my experience that self-paced courses are a double-edged sword. The flexibility that makes online courses popular also brings with it the temptation to procrastinate in the absence of weekly F2F meetings. As a result, withdrawals and "F's" due to the inability to complete work are very high in online courses. Given this flexibility as well as the open-book nature of this course, the final, quizzes, and posts will not be re-opened; no "Incomplete" will be granted without a documented medical emergency. It is the student's responsibility to be aware of all deadlines. If you find that you have forgotten, misread, misunderstood, misconstrued the deadlines, and/or have “misplaced” your cyber-calendar, are the victim of a computer crash, have fallen prey to cyber-gremlins, and/or your cyber-dog ate your cyber-paper, and/or just plain procrastinated, do not e-mail the instructor requesting any of the aforementioned.

The moral of the story is this: if you want to avoid undue stress, anxiety, and do well in the course, make sure you take the time to read on a consistent basis and check in on the discussion messages regularly; do not wait until the last possible day/minute to take quizzes and post discussions. Keep in mind those students that are actively engaged in the course will fare better at the end of the semester. If you have any questions concerning the course, feel free to send me a message. If you encounter material in the readings that you do not understand, contact me and I will gladly assist you.

Federal Financial Aid Regulation

All faculty are required to document students’ academic activity at the beginning of each course. In order to document that you began this course, please complete the Student Information for Instructor assignment included in this module by Saturday, August 29th @ 5:00 pm (or, if adding the course late, as soon as possible after adding the course). This assignment should be turned in no later than the end of the first (introductory) module. Failure to do so may result in a delay in the disbursement of your financial aid.
