Course Description

It can be argued that most live entertainments developed from theatre. This course is an introductory overview of the arts and crafts of live theatrical venues. We will begin with what is theatre and how did it begin? What kinds of shows and styles of theatrical live entertainment can I see and how have they evolved? What kind of theatre space is this? Who are the people in my program? What are their roles? Who decides if a show is good or bad? How do I assess the quality of a show? How do they pull it all together? What goes on in behind and in front of the curtain? Whose voices do American playwrights represent and what are their backgrounds? The class will examine the major elements of theatre and answer each of the previous questions.

NOTE: All instructors/faculty are required to document students' academic activity at the beginning of each course. This is done automatically by a recorded attendance or any grade assigned in the first week of class whether online or in a physical classroom.

Course Objectives

- Objective One – Upon completion of this course the student will be able to identify and discuss the basic elements of the origin of traditional theatre and the basic elements of the of the top live entertainment venues in the US and how they began and how some have evolved.

The plays, materials, and ideas covered during this class may express adult or controversial themes as well as strong language. If this presents a problem for you, please see the instructor immediately to access your chances for success in the course. Topics of sex and violence are inherently political historically. Expect to have questions raised that may raise your hackles. The professor is going to engage you as 'devils' advocate in ways intended to inform your personal choices for yourselves. Some views expressed will not even be the position of the instructor. This is NOT a high school-hand holding-standardized test kind of course.

TRAVEL ARRANGEMENTS SHOULD BE MADE WITH YOUR SYLLABUS IN HAND. DO NOT EXPECT CLASS SCHEDULES, TESTS, OR DUE DATES TO SHIFT. WE WILL HOLD CLASS EVERY DAY WE ARE SCHEDULED- ESPECIALLY JUST BEFORE HOLIDAYS.

INTENTION:

I will not change or cancel class

I could not, would not, for a house.

I would not, could not, for a spouse.

I would not change them for a pox.

I would not change them for some lox.

I would not move them here or there.

I would not move them anywhere.

I would not change a scheduled class

I do not like to, so don't be crass!

Please, do not ask. Please, do not book travel. Please, inform your families they may not schedule you on trips during these times. Please, inform your employers they may not schedule you. Please, feed your family vitamins so they may be healthy on these days. Experience has shown these dates are perilous for your loved ones. Please, have no religious conversions, magic spells, alien abductions, exorcisms, bigfoot attacks, or out of body experiences on these days. Due dates, class, exams, and projects will go on without you.

Advice for care and feeding of professors- Never say the following to any instructor. Biting may occur.

1. Did we do anything important last class?
2. Will we do anything important next class?

The following are powerful incantations that can drive a professor to the dark side.

1. Do not lobby a professor for higher grades that are unearned
2. Do not ask for answers to questions that may be found in a syllabus, UCF academic calendar, or have been answered in class more than three times.

3. These dark acts have been known to transform professors into various evil creatures like banshees, ghouls, Shaun Hannity, and Donald Trump.

Helpful Note: If you find yourself offended by something that happened in class, please tell yourself this simple truth: No offense to you was intended. The overall intention of the class/instructor is meant to be positive life-growth for you. Breathe, and ask yourself to cut everyone some slack as these are very difficult topics to discuss. If really troubled, come meet with the Professor during office hours and discuss the situation politely in a calm setting, away from the pressure of a large crowd. Concerns may best be addressed this way. If you need to leave a class due to becoming upset? You may. Do so quietly and respectfully. Communicate with your instructor.

ELECTRONIC AND ANALOG DEVICES

No cell phone use is permitted. No texting devices are permitted. No digital or analog recordings are permitted. We will be covering a lot of copyright-sensitive material. No audio recordings which require the use of ear jacks/buds are permitted. No computers are permitted- unless in use for the electronic text! Use of brains is approved. Consider yourself a Luddite during this class.

NOTE: Use of these devices during testing will automatically be considered cheating.

Attendance Policy

It is the policy of the University to reasonably accommodate absences due to observed religious holidays. The student must provide proof of observation and the student will be held responsible for any material covered during the absence. If you know of any dates you will miss due to religious observance you must inform the instructor through email during the first week of classes.
